UNIQONT

"I wonder if any other haulier has used their vehicles for such a variety of products as we have? We've done removals, wood chip, aggregate, scrap, trucks and machines. Anything you can think of. And all the latches, doors and hinges have worked perfectly these past 10 years. Pretty impressive!"

GOING TO TOWN WITH SEDUM ROOFS

Green, environment-friendly sedum roofs are popping up everywhere. In Sweden, most, if not all of them, come from around Vislanda, in the southern Swedish county of Småland.

Every day, one of haulier Georg Gustavsson's trucks leaves Vislanda fully loaded with sedum roofs for the main towns in southern Sweden, including Stockholm. All neatly loaded and unloaded on a UniQont body with drop sides from CMT.
"Most of the deliveries are to Stockholm which means that we park up a bit outside the city centre and make the final delivery with a single hook-lift truck," says Henrik Gustavsson, part owner and the grandson of the company's founder, Georg.

"Hook-lifts enable us to drive in city environments while the drop sides make them easy to load and unload with a forklift or similar. It's really just like a delivery van."

SPECIAL CMT CONCEPT MAKES LOADING EVEN EASIER

"Because you can open the sides, it's easy to load and unload. And we love the robust build. We bought our first UniQont in 2008 and have used it non-stop since then."
Georg Gustavsson haulage company has also bought a number of other bodies from CMT including dumper bodies and Opticont aggregate and rubble/hardcore bodies.
